

CURE LA AT BALDWIN HILLS CRENSHAW PLAZA

The first CURE LA pop-up of 2023 was held on Saturday, January 28, at the Baldwin Hills Crenshaw Plaza. CURE LA is a “21st Century (R)Evolutionary approach to healthcare without walls” concept that brings health care services, nutritional education, employment training and housing information to the community. No insurance required. The Red Cross, Kedren Community Health Center, Natural Intentions Nutrition, mobile dentistry, Covid testing, health screenings, home fire preparedness, were a few of the services available.

“Right now, the people dying today in the hospital are the ones that went untreated during the pandemic for heart disease, diabetes, etc.,” Community Build President Robert Sausedo said. “The goal of CURE LA is to get people comfortable with going back to the doctor.”

COMMUNITY BUILD HOSTS A PUBLIC VIEWING OF TYRE NICHOLS VIDEO

Community Build, Inc. held a public viewing of the Memphis police camera video of the brutal beating of 29-year old Tyre Nichols during a traffic stop on January 7. Nichols died three days later on January 10, 2023 from injuries sustained during the beating.

After the viewing, CBI President Robert Sausedo, CBI Community Services Director Earnest Williams, Community Activist Najee Ali and LAPD Deputy Chief Gerald Woodyard spoke to reporters. Lora King, daughter of Rodney King, whose beating at the hands of LAPD sparked the 1992 Civil Unrest in Los Angeles, also spoke about what it was like to watch the video 31 years after her father’s beating.

“Here’s what stands out to me from this video. It isn’t racism that driving this, it’s culturalism. A culturalism that says it’s okay to be overly aggressive towards those that you’re supposed to protect and serve and do what we gotta do., Sausedo said. “I’m calling out to the folks who are feeling some kind of way, to channel your energy to working with us and other community leaders to bring about true and systemic change.”

FARMERS MARKET OPENS IN HISTORIC AFIBA CENTER

For more than two decades the Crenshaw Farmers Market has been a Saturday morning staple in the courtyard of the Cinemark Baldwin Hills Crenshaw and XD, adjacent to the Baldwin Hills Crenshaw Plaza. On Saturday, January 14, the Sustainable Economic Enterprises of Los Angeles (SEE-LA), parent organization of the farmers market, will move the market to its new location at the AFIBA Center (Fire Station 54), 5730 Crenshaw Boulevard, near the intersection of Crenshaw and Slauson, adjacent to the US Bank building.

In an effort to reach more of the South Los Angeles community, SEE-LA negotiated with the City of Los Angeles to relocate to a site with high street visibility and easier access to public transit.

“We are proud and excited to partner with Councilmember Marqueece Harris-Dawson and Los Angeles Council District 8 to host the Crenshaw Farmers’ Market at the AFIBA Center. The center has a long history of being a gathering place for the community” said Community Build, Inc. President Robert Sausedo. “With all the daily programs and services that will be available at AFIBA Center and the relocation of the Crenshaw Farmers’ Market, the area will become an accessible and vital resource for South L.A. and begin to address an area that had become a food desert.”
